[REDACTED] the present appeasement policy in Hungary is of no permanent significance. It is temporary only, and motivated by the tactical need to make some gesture to the peasants at the time of the harvest.¹

2.

[REDACTED] the agricultural production figures for 1952

sugar beet	32
wheat	60
corn, oats, rye	40-50
fatt cattle	23
pigs	38-40
horses	28-30 ²

3. By way of a further gesture to the public, a complete regrouping of Governmental officials is taking place in Hungary, under which those who have been in direct contact with the public, and particularly those connected with the issuing or carrying out of unpopular decrees, etc., have all been replaced. However, these officials have not been dismissed. On the contrary, most of them have been promoted to higher posts, where their duties keep them in the background.¹
